

Optimizing Hemoglobin Levels and Beyond: Strength for Living and Meaningful Survival?

The 3rd Educational Symposium on
Advances In Cancer
Anemia Management

20-23 March 2003
Vienna, Austria

VIENNA

Quality of Life Among Patients with Cancer—the Impact of Anemia and Fatigue

ANEMIA

Contents

Balancing Quality of Life and Cancer Treatment Toxicities

David Khayat, M.D., Paris France; Selma R. Schimmel, Encino, USA

Partnering With Breast Cancer Patients in Treatment Decisions

Julie R. Gralow, M.D., Seattle, USA

Follow-Up of Gynecologic Cancer Patients: Meeting the Challenges

Sergio Pecorelli, M.D., Brescia, Italy

Facing Fatigue—A New Priority in Cancer Management

Gregory A. Curt, M.D., Wilmington, USA; Patrick Johnston, M.D., Ph.D., Belfast, Ireland

Epoetin Alfa Decreases Fatigue

Uwe Reinhardt, M.D., Bayreuth, Germany

Anemia Treatment Improves Cognitive Function

Paul Sabbatini, M.D. New York, USA for the US Oncology Study Group

Epoetin Alfa Results in Clinically Significant Improvements in QOL

Timothy Littlewood, M.D., Oxford, England