

Optimizing Hemoglobin Levels and Beyond: Strength for Living and Meaningful Survival?

The 3rd Educational Symposium on
Advances In Cancer
Anemia Management

20-23 March 2003
Vienna, Austria

VIENNA

Focus on Anemia in Breast Cancer

ANEMIA

Focus on Anemia Breast Cancer

- New anticancer therapies
- Prevalence and management of anemia among patients with breast cancer
- Correlation between fatigue and hemoglobin (Hb) levels
- Improvement of hematologic and quality of life (QOL) parameters with recombinant human erythropoietin (rHuEPO; eg, epoetin alfa)
- Identifying optimal anemia treatment intervention strategy

Contents

Late-Stage Breast Cancer: New Data, New Targets

Pere Gascón, M.D., Ph.D., Barcelona, Spain

Treating Breast Cancer

David Henry, M.D., Philadelphia, PA, USA

A Patient's Experience

Ursula Goldmann-Posch, Augsburg, Germany

Partnering With Breast Cancer Patients in Treatment Decisions

Mario Dicato, M.D., Luxembourg, Luxembourg

Is Anemia Undertreated in Breast Cancer Patients? An ECAS Update

Simon Van Belle, M.D., Ph.D., Ghent, Belgium

Epoetin Alfa in Breast Cancer: What is the Clinical Evidence?

Matti S. Aapro, M.D., Genolier, Switzerland

Contents (cont'd)

Epoetin Alfa in Breast Cancer – Is Early Intervention the Answer?

Paolo Pronzato, M.D., Genoa, Italy

Anemia Treatment Improves Cognitive Function

Joyce O'Shaughnessy, M.D., Dallas, TX, USA

Treatment in the Adjuvant and Neoadjuvant Therapy Setting

Michael Untch, M.D., Munich, Germany